SOUTH LONDONDERRY.

The Late Gilman Thompson.

The following was written for publication in this column by V. Boyden:

In the passing of Gilman J. Thompson Londonderry loses one of its most honored citizens, and one who, born in town and living here practically all his life, leaves no memory except of esteem. The son of Nathaniel and Philena Buxton Thompson, Gilman Judson Thompson was born Nov. 23, 1832. On Aug. 14, 1859, he married Susan Abbe Temple, who died March 29, 1916. They are survived by their daughter, Miss Hattie Thompson, who has been her father's housekeeper for several years and has given him most faithful and loving care.

Mr. Thompson was an enthusiastic and loyal member of the G. A. R., being a charter member of Hooker post, and for many years had been the color bearer. A lover of nature, he had followed the occupation of farming all his life, even since he moved 19 years ago to the home where he died. His last illness, caused by a fall, was one of constant and intense pain from which he had little relief for six long weeks, but no word of incontinence escaped him. His oft repeated prayer was: "Jesus help me."

His was a family notable for longevity, no deaths having occurred in a family of five for over 50 years until some seven months ago a sister, Mrs. Eliza, of Somerville, passed away at the age of 89 and a few months later Mrs. Wheeler of Winchester at the age of 91. Mrs. F. J. Chase and Mrs. Ellen Jaquith of this town survive.

Funeral of G. J. Thompson.

Funeral services for the late Gilman J. Thompson were held at the home Saturday afternoon, Aug. 16. Rev. Kendrick Hackett officiated and Miss Gladys Kelly and Mrs. Frank Tyler gave a beautiful rendering of No. 318. There, by Clements and The Lights of Home. Among the many flowers was a wreath of roses and lilies from the Grand Army and a choice spray of gladioli from Camp Foster. Sons of
